

COMPUTER AND INTERNET ACCESS POLICY

Nature of the Internet

As an unregulated medium, the Internet differs from the Library's collection in that it is not organized, cataloged or evaluated by the Library staff.

The Library has no control over the Internet and its resources and assumes no responsibility for the quality, accuracy or currency of any Internet information.

The Internet may contain material of a controversial nature. Not all sources on the Internet provide information that is current, accurate, unobjectionable or complete. Some content is obscene and/or harmful to minors. Although Library computers have filtering software, the Library does not guarantee protection from controversial material. Parents or guardians of minors must assume responsibility for their children's use of the Internet through the Library's connection.

Wireless Internet access is available throughout the Library building, to eligible users who have the necessary devices and software, via an open, unsecured network.

Staff Assistance

Library staff provides limited assistance for basic start up and navigation. When Technology Help staff are available, they may provide additional assistance. Library staff do not assist patrons with any online financial transactions. Computer classes are offered at various times. Ask for details at any Service Desk.

Internet Permission

Parents or guardians take responsibility for their child/student's Internet use.

Privacy of Patrons Records

All Library records identifying the names of patrons with records of use of specific library materials and electronic resources are confidential in nature and will not be made available to any person or agency, including governmental authorities, except pursuant to authorized process, order or subpoena, according to law.

Use of Internet & Library Computers

- Use of the computers is on a first come, first served basis.
- Up to two people may work together at a computer, one person per chair.
- The Library does not provide data storage. Library computers are erased upon restarting.

- If patrons choose to save files they must provide their own storage devices or purchase a USB Flash Drive at any Service Desk. Data downloaded from the Internet may contain computer viruses. The Library is not responsible for damage to any patron's equipment, or any loss of data, damage or liability that may occur from the patron's use of the Library computers.
- The Library assumes no responsibility for any activities conducted by users of the Library's computers or by users of the Library's wireless network.
- Patrons risk loss of Library privileges if they access sites that are illegal or are disruptive to the use of the Library by other patrons because of offensive content (for example, pornography, etc.). All computers are monitored by Library staff.
- Library computers may be used only for legal purposes. Unacceptable use includes, but is not limited to: harassment, libel or slander, fraud, destruction, modification or damage to equipment, software or data; accessing websites that are harmful to minors or depict child pornography (any visual depiction [that] is or appears to be, of a minor engaging in sexually explicit conduct); disruption or unauthorized monitoring of electronic communications; unauthorized copying of copyright-protected material; unauthorized access, including hacking and other unlawful online activities.
- Patrons may not modify or remove any equipment. If equipment maintenance is required, staff are to be notified.
- Patrons must not attempt to circumvent computer session controls or security measures.
- Library equipment and staff may not be used to illegally alter the content of documents or photos or to perform any other illegal activity.
- Computers on the automated reservation system shut down approximately 5 minutes before the Library closes.
- Food and beverages are not allowed in the Computer Lab or STC Creative.
- The Library reserves the right to terminate a patron's computer session if the patron is in violation of the Library's Patron Code of Conduct or these procedures.
- The wireless network shuts down one hour after the Library closes.
- Microsoft Office and additional software are available on all Internet computers.
- Non-cardholders should be prepared to show a staff member a photo ID upon request.
- Library Cards are not transferable.
- Patrons may be limited to an hour of usage if there are other patrons waiting to use the computers.
